350
I. GOODMAN
TAILOR DOLLAR
CLEANER
F-5800-Pub.A.12

Street Scene
(1931, United Artists)

UA 56, Bx 273/1
Image ID # 95830

MANHATTAN
WRECKING CO NY
SHOES

1931 UA

(Street Scene)

Sylvia Sidney

17 of 18

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of with Estelle Taylor, Beulah Bondi & Eleanor Wesselhoft

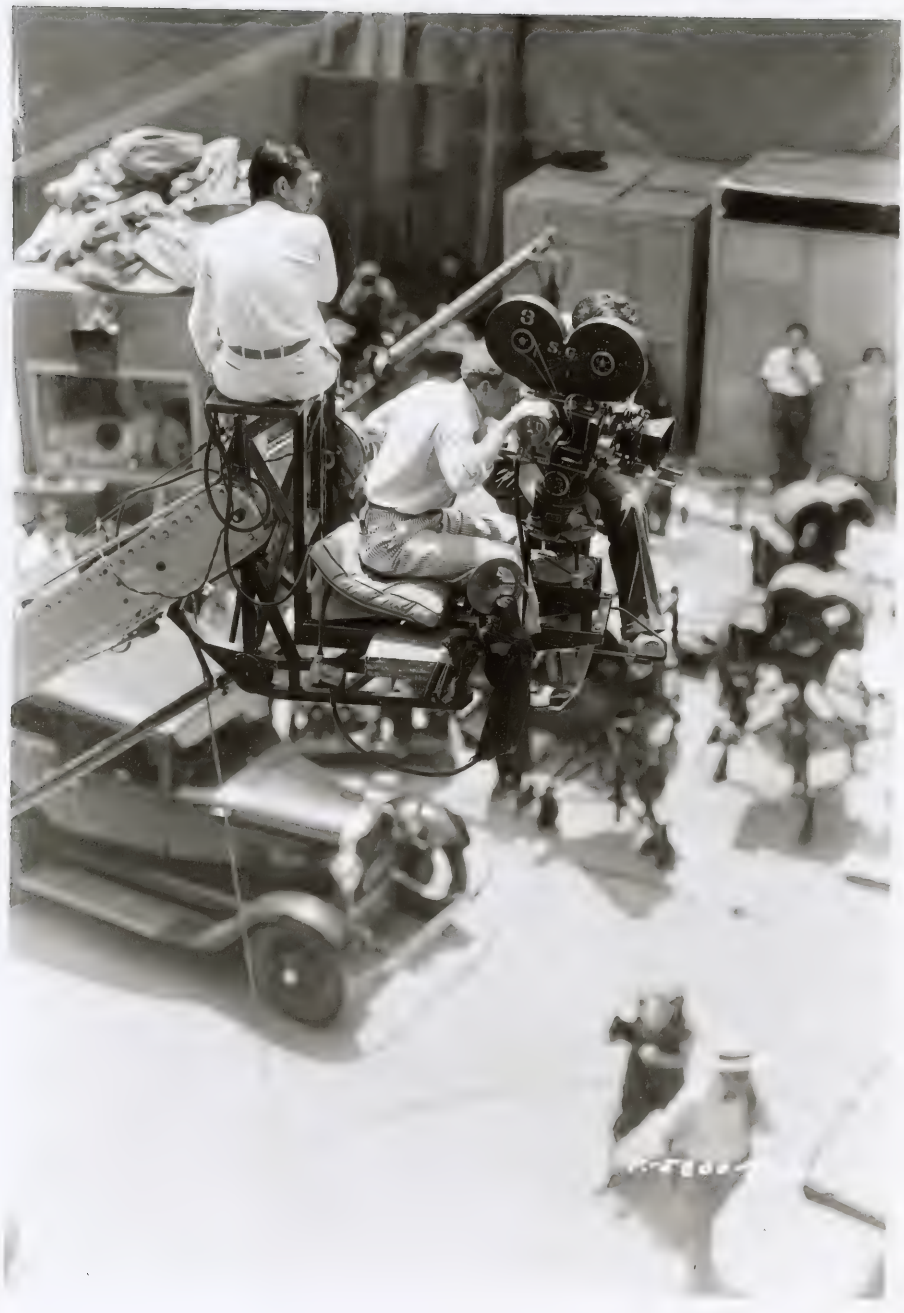
F-5800-A.37

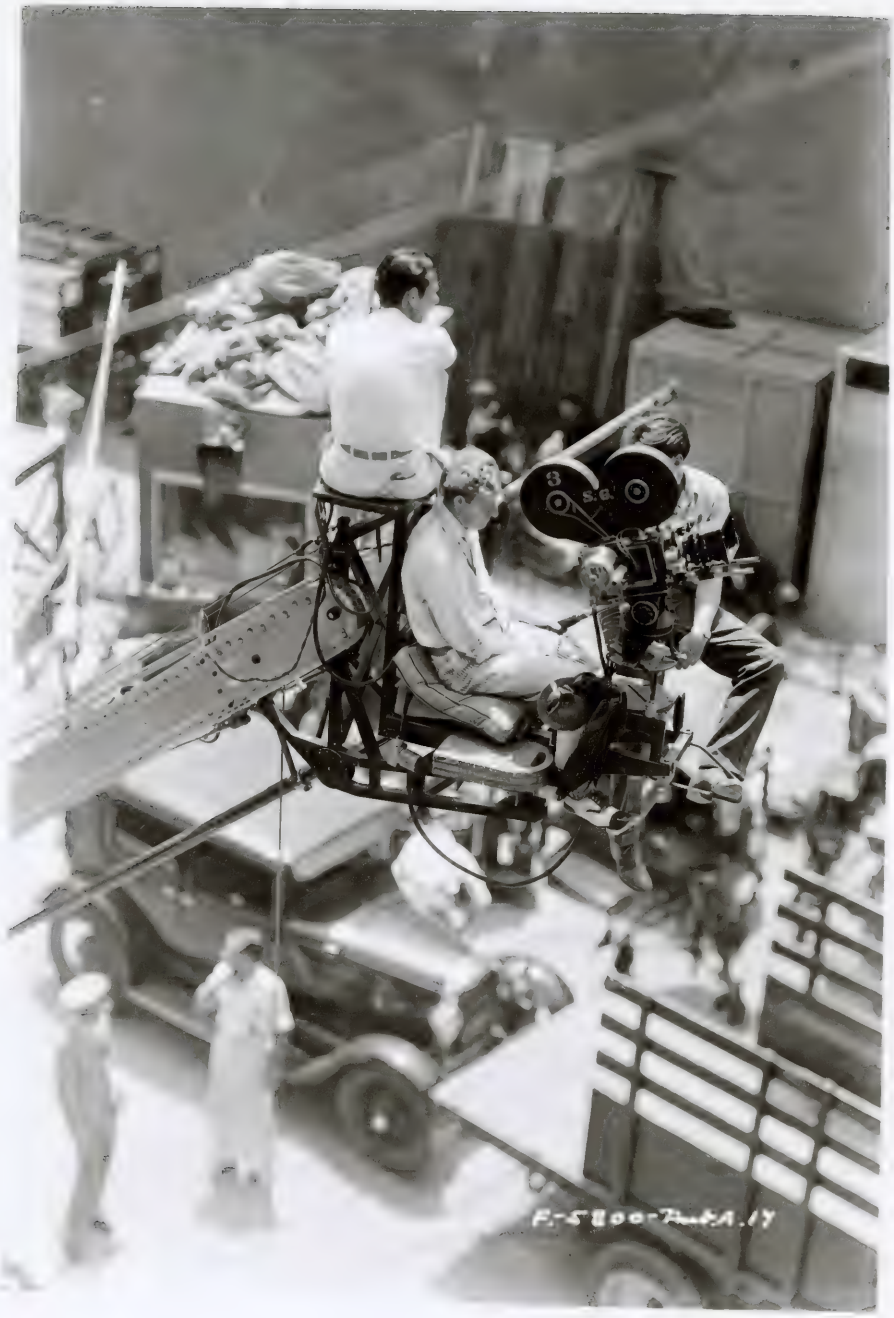
37

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Marcia Mae Jones, Helen Lovett, Kenneth Seiling, Geo. Humbert

1.

350
F-5800-Part A/3





3
S.A.

CONWAY WASHBURNE
F-5800-A.8

Eric
Bloxham

JOHN M. QUALEN
F-5900-A.9

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of John M. Qualen, who portrays the role of Karl Olsen in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

9 x 10

JOHN M. ALLEN
5800-A.10

BEULAH BONDI
F-5800-A

LAMBERT ROGERS
F-5800-A.14

BEULAH BONDI
F-5600-A.16

F-5800-A.19

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating — the human puppets of the universe — are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. There is an interesting scene of Adele Watson & Beulah Bondi as Olga Olsen & Emma Jones

F.-5800-A.21

F.-5800-A. 27

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Lon Manning & Beulah Bondi as George & Emma Jones

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Estelle Taylor & David Landau as Mr. & Mrs. Maurant

MARGARET ROBINSON
F-5800-A.2a

DAVID LANDAU
F-5800-A 2,4

DAVID LA
F-580

HELEN LOVETT
F-5800-A.53

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Helen Lovett who portrays the role of Laura Hildebrand in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

53

BUBBLES
F.-5802-A.78

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Buster who portrays the role of Sweeney in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

13

BUBBLES
F-5800-A.74

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Buster who portrays the role of Sweeney in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

14

STORAGE
WARE
CO.
HOWARD RUSSELL
F-S100-475

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Howard Russell who portrays the role of Dr John Wilson in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

15

F-5800-A.30

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Estelle Taylor & Beulah Bondi as Mrs Maurrant & Emma Jones

F-5800-A.31

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of David Landau (Mr. Maurrant), Estelle Taylor (Mrs. Maurrant), Geo. Humbert (Filippo Florentino), Beulah Bondi (Emma Jones)

F-5800-A.3

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Estelle Taylor (~~Emma~~ Mrs. Maurrant) Geo. Humbert (Filippo Florentino) Russell Hopton (Sankey)

ALLAN FOX
F-5800-A.67

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Allan Fox who portrays the role of Dick McGann in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

67

HOWARD RUSSELL

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Howard Russell who portrays the role of Dr John Wilson in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

68

MATTHEW McHUGH

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Matthew McHugh who portrays the role of Vincent Jones in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

69

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Tom Manning who portrays the role of George Jones in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

7

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Greta Granstedt + Allan Fox as Mae Jones + Dick McGann

ADELE WATSON

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Adele Watson as Olga Olsen

58

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of David Landau, Lambert Rogers, Estelle Taylor as Mr. & Mrs. & Willie Maurikat

61

F.-5800-A.63

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Estelle Taylor + David Landau as Mr. + Mrs. Maurrant

63

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Matthew McDaughan Vincent Jones

Beulah Bondi as Emma Jones

GRETA GRANDSTEDT
F-5800-A.65

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Greta Granstedt who portrays the role of Mae Jones in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

05

F-5800-A.56

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Sylvia Sidney Russell Hopton, Addie Watson Beulah Bondi

GOODMAN
TAILOR
DOLLAR
CLEANER

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene ~~of~~ from the great screen drama.

F-5800-A.39

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Geo. Humbert & Eleanor Wesselhoeft as Filippo and Lucia Florentino.

10

F-5800-A.40

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of George Humbert, Eleanor Wesselhoeft, Beulah Bondi.

F-5600-A-4-L

* 41

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of George Humbert, Tom Manning, Eleanor Wesselhoft, Beulah Bondi

F-5800-1.42

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Marcia Mae Jones, Helen Lovett, Kenneth Seiling

42

F-5800-1-42

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Emma Dunn as Shirley Kaplan, and Matt Moore as Abe Kaplan

43

F-5800-A.44

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of John M. Qualen as Karl Olsen, and Geo Humbert as Filippo Florentino

F-5800-A.45

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of John M. Qualen as Karl Olsen & Geo. Humbert as Filippo Florentino

45

פריהייט
MAX MONTOR
F-5800-A.46

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of May Mouton who portrays the role of Rae Kaplan in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

46

GEORGE HUMBERT
F-5800-A. 47

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of George Humbert who portrays the role of Filippo Florentino in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

47

GEORGE HUMBERT
F-5800-A.48

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of George Humbert who portrays the role of Filippo Florentino in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

GEORGE HUMBERT

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of George Sumbert who portrays the role of Filippo Florentino in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

49

MAX MONITOR

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, 50 are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Max Morton who portrays the role of the Kaplan in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

RUSSELL HOPTON
F-5800-A.51

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Russell Hopton who portrays the role of Lankey in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

51

RUSSELL HOPTON
F-5800-A.52

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene" which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe - are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Russell Hopton who portrays the role of Sankey in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier Jr. play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

52

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of George Jones, who portrays the role of Tom Manning in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

TOM MANNING
F. 5800-A.1

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Tom Manning, who portrays the role of George Jones in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

ELEANOR WESSELHOEFT
F. 5800-A.3

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Eleanor Wesselhoeft, who portrays the role of Greta Florentino in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

ELEANOR WESSELHOEFT
F-5800-A.4.

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Eleanor Wesselhoeft, who portrays the role of Greta Florentino in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

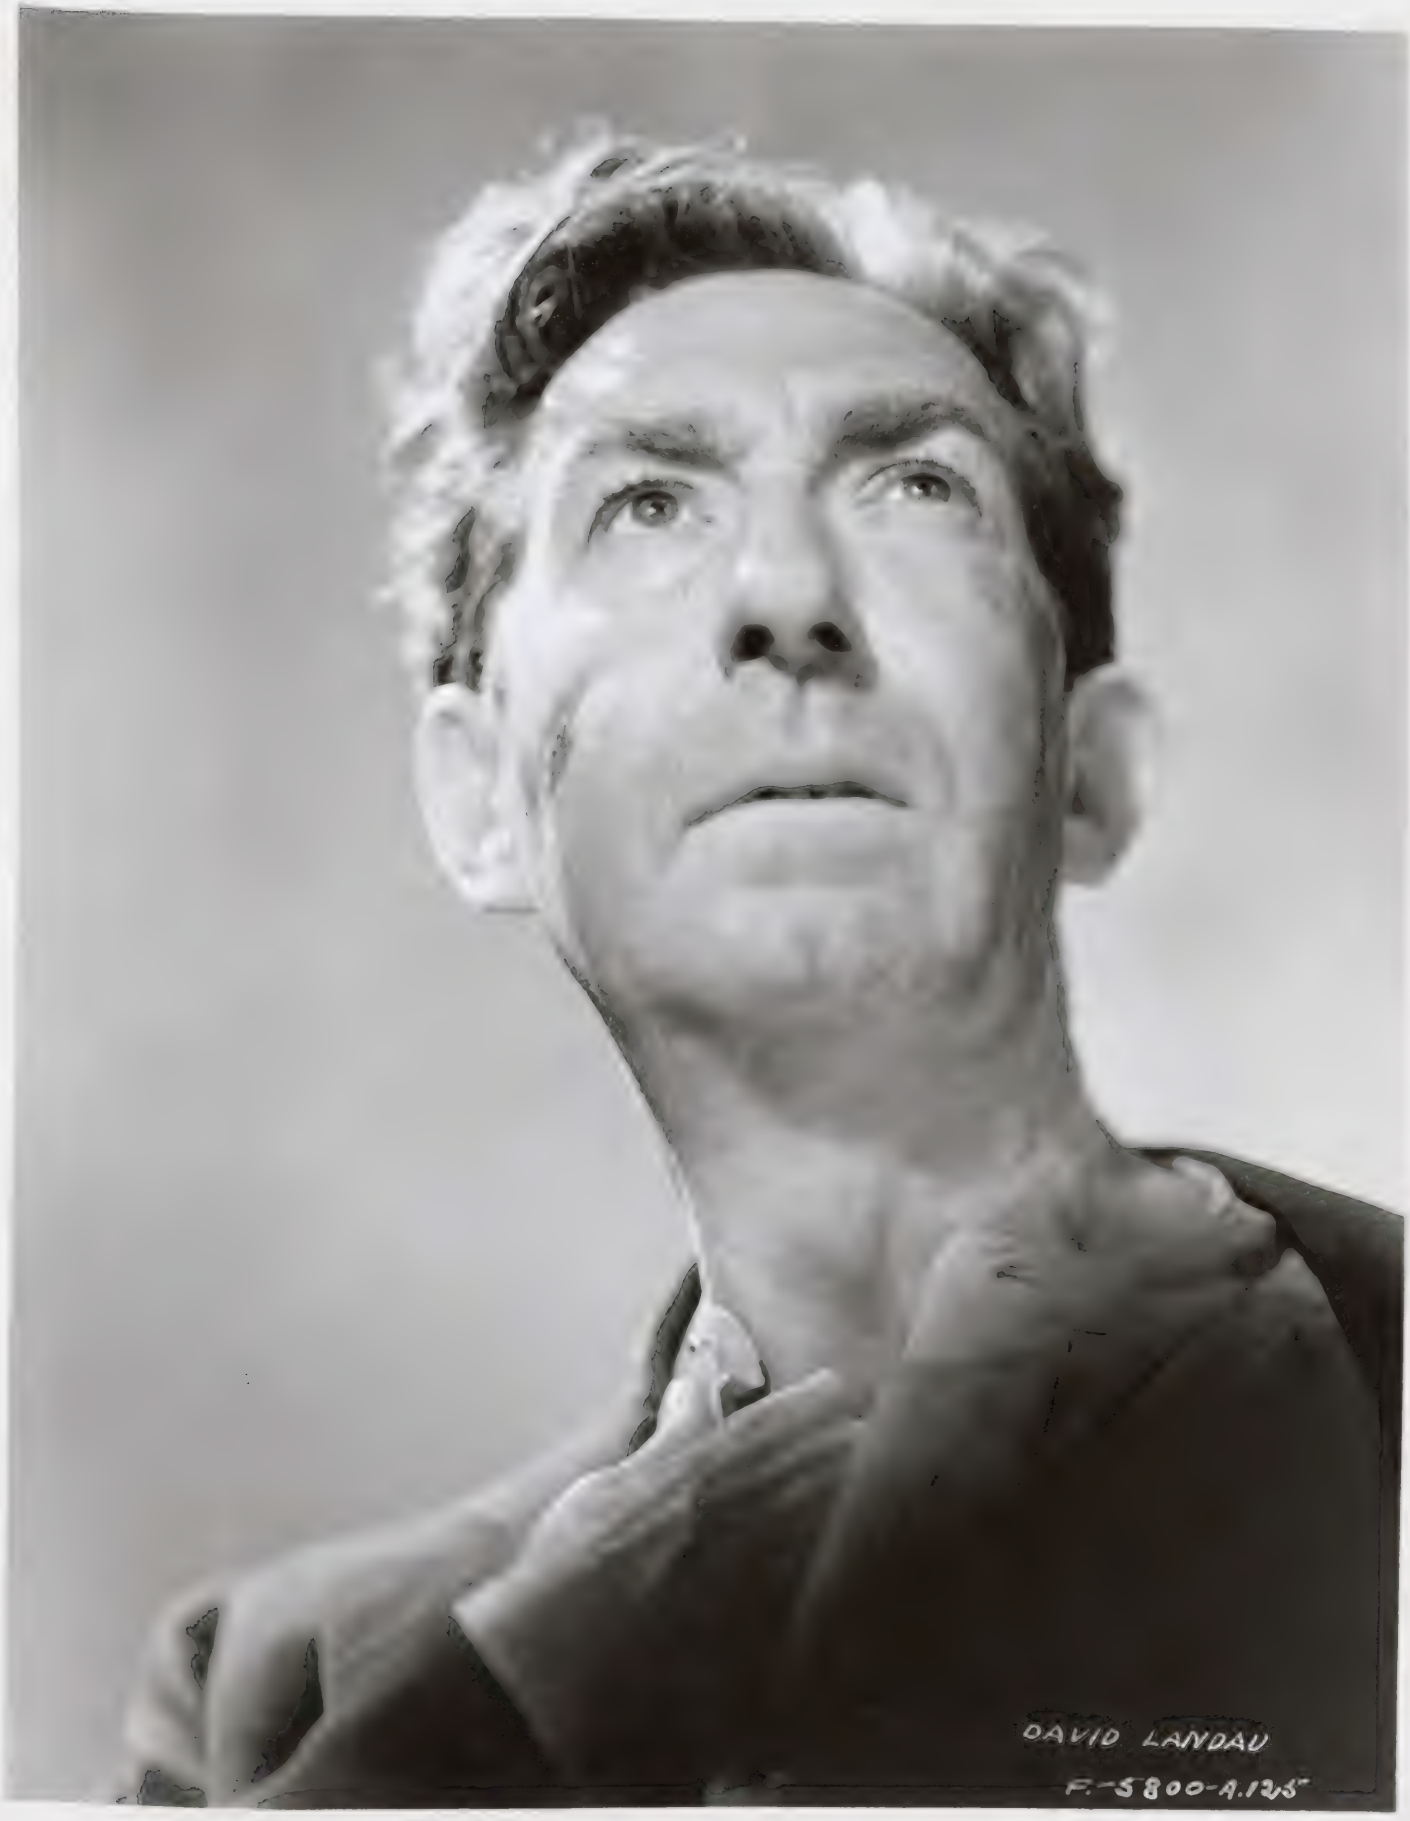
Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play, their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads with Estelle Taylor in an important role. Here is an interesting scene of Beulah Bondi & Eleanor Wesselhoft as Emma Jones and Greta Florentine

5

CONWAY WASHBURNE
F-58-80-A.7

Although Elmer Rice selected a New York Street for the locale of his great Pulitzer prize play, "Street Scene," which Samuel Goldwyn is now bringing to the screen with King Vidor as director, the characters of the play; their emotions, thoughts and actions, are typical of any side-street of any city of the world. Hard, grasping, selfish, loving, hating -- the human puppets of the universe -- are the characters Rice has portrayed. And here is an interesting character portrait of Conway Washburne, who portrays the role of D. Buchanan in this great drama, in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., play the leads and Estelle Taylor has an important role.

7 + 8



DAVID LANDAU
F-5800-A.125

WILLIAM COLLIER JR.
F.-5800-A.130

F-5800-A.79

TIONS

F-5800-A.44

F-5800-A.144

F-5800-A.31

SHEET-128-4

346
PATRICK MULCAI
STORAGE
WAREHOUSE
CO. INC.